

DISINFORMATION

WHAT IS DISINFORMATION?

Disinformation is false information deliberately spread to deceive people. It should not be confused with misinformation, which is false information but is not deliberate. Where misinformation refers to inaccuracies that stem from error, disinformation is a deliberate falsehood promulgated by design.

Disinformation can be hard to spot, but there are some common signs to watch for. ✨

- provokes an emotional response
- makes a bold statement on a controversial issue
- makes an extraordinary claim
- seems too good to be true
- contains clickbait (for example: “You won’t believe this video!”)
- uses small pieces of valid information that are exaggerated or distorted ✨
- has been shared widely on platforms with a track record of spreading disinformation

Disinformation is false information that is intentionally spread to mislead people. It can take many forms, including rumors, fake news and propaganda. ✨

Disinformation is spread with the intention of influencing public opinion or promoting a particular agenda. It can be difficult to distinguish disinformation from real information, which is why it's important to check information before sharing with others. ✨
